

Dear Members

If you managed to make it to Stonehenge early this morning, we hope you enjoyed a beautiful sunrise! Today is the Longest Day - The Summer Solstice - it signals the start of astronomical summer and has the most daylight hours. The summer solstice occurs when one of Earth's poles has its maximum tilt toward the Sun. It happens twice yearly, once in each hemisphere (Northern and Southern). For that hemisphere, the summer solstice is the day with the longest period of daylight and shortest night of the year, when the Sun is at its highest position in the sky. Within the Arctic circle (for the Northern hemisphere) or Antarctic circle (for the Southern), there is continuous daylight around the summer solstice.
